Choice for Clean Money Campaigns in New Jersey

Clean Money Campaigns would be accomplished by avoiding patchwork solutions continually under threat from constitutional challenges. Freedom of speech is preserved by giving candidates choice in how they may conduct their campaigns for public office.

Clean Money legislation as passed and adopted in Maine and Arizona allow candidates to have that choice. These campaigns raise small amounts of money from individuals while agreeing not to accept political action committee (PAC) or corporate cash or contributions from personal wealth. Matching funds from the state allow for their message to be read and heard by the voters at a reasonable level of spending.

The current system demands favors in return for campaign donations whether expressed directly or through the very fact that a candidate receives money from a PAC representing certain interests. These interests are known and their favor of donation may not be offered again without the proper legislation submitted and votes cast by their winning candidate.

Clean Money Campaigns will end unethical influence on legislation only with elected officials willing to make their voices heard. Our candidacy as Green Party contenders precludes our accepting any PAC or corporate money. Our guide for initiating legislation and casting votes will be decided upon our seeking a consensus of opinion from constituents, reflecting on the 10 Key Values and looking to our own personal conscience in matters when only extreme sides have taken stands with residents polarized.

We have been told that one of the corporate parties has a saying "raise more, spend more" to remain in power. This practice for running campaigns will not construct public policy for the people to enjoy being residents of the State of New Jersey. A new path for elections must be taken with Clean Money Campaigns.
